COURTESIES OF THE CARS.

low an Avenue Conductor Compelled Gallantry from Unwilling Passengers.; "Are there any gentleman in this car," said the conductor in an insinuating tone as he handed a shabbily dressed lady into an avenue car yesterday afternoon. Every seat was octhat remained occupied two seconds latter, and the pourly costumed lady, whose pale face

Close of the Inquest and Committal of the colored, testified that she saw the men playing on a sweat-cloth from 11:30 to 12 o'clock Sunday forenoon, when Burrill called Jones a vile name. Both men went into the road and picked up stones, and then they went toward each other, one dropping his missiles and the other drawing a knife, which he held behind him. They went up Third street, stopping in front of Moore's place, where they commenced to light with their fists. Burrill let go of Jones and ran, Jones also running, but was knocked out of Minor Taylor's house, where he tried to take refuge. Jones then picked up two stones and threw them at Harrill, striking him in the back, but fell to the ground afterward. Witness helped to pick him up, and he died in her arms. She identified the prisoner, who was brought in for that purpose.

Andrew Jackson was also present, and related the cause of the trouble. Jones had bet and lost on the game, and struck Burrill, who had demanded another quarter, running for a door afterward, from which he was put out, and then Burrill cut him.

William Simms said that when Jones kicked Burrill that after paid him 50 cents.

The Jury returned a verdict that Jones's death was caused by a punctured woundoof the pulmonary artery, inflicted with a knife in the hands of Henry alias Cuffer Burrill.

The prisoner admitted to the officers having cut Jones, who, he said, was pursuing and striking him. He was photographed and sent to joil.

THE ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

another Company Proposes to Attempt Lighting the City Streets.

and make an inspection of the electrical exposition in progress there. Experts will accompany the party, and several tests will be made of the systems for street lighting, with a view of adapting one of them to the streets of this city. The committee will go about the latter part of this week and will remain for a few days. On their return they will make a proposition to the commissioners to light the streets at terms which they say the commissioners cannot reject.

A letter received here from an electric expert in New York states "that in no other city in the world are the streets allowed to be lighted by reflectors," and the writer is inclined to think that the local branch of the Brush-Swan company are conducting some private tests while he is sure the parent company are opposed to the system. The Brush-Swan company will in a few days begin the erection of their "yard" poles at Seventh and Ninth streets on Pennsylvania avenue.

COL. BURNSIDE'S PLEA.

He Says that He Did Not Steal Anything and He Was Not Disbursing Clerk Anyway. On the 22d of last July the United States conductor in an insinuating tone as he through District Attorney Worthington, ended a shabbilly dressed lady into an avenue yesterday afternoon. Every seat was ocied and there were only three ladies in the partment, and the sureties on his bond, N. L. Jeffries, ElizaC. Hutchinson, as administratric of the estate of H. M. Hutchison, an administrative of the estate of H. M. Hutchison, and Robert G. Ingersoll, as administrator of the estate of Ebon C. Ingersoll, to recover $40.00 for failure of Col. Baraside to administer the office of disburing clerk in an honest and faithful manner, and to make good to that extent the alleged defalcation of the disbursing clerk.

faithre of Col. Burnside to administer the office of disburing clerk in an honest and faithful manner, and to make good to that extent the alleged defalcation of the disbursing clerk.

Messrs. Shellabarger and Wilson and S. R. Bond yesterday filed for Col. Burnside his pleas as to the suit against him and Gen. Jeffries. The other two being against estates require separate pleas.

Col. Burnsides says that the postmaster general did not on the 1st day of October, 1879, nor at any other time pursuant to law, constitute and appoint him superintendent of the postoffice building and disbursing clerk, and that he neever was so appointed. He denies that he neglected or refused to pay to the United States all public moneys coming into his hands, or that he leased, used, deposited in bank, or exchanged for other funds than as the law allows, but avers that he fully paid the money and discharged all obligations upon him before the commencement of the suit; "that he truly used, faithfully executed, and discharged all the duties of the said office of superintendent of the postoffice building and disbursing clerk according to the laws of the United States, and did truly and faithfully keep safely and disburse and pay out all sums of public money placed or coming into his hands from time to time without loaning, using, &c., and did do and perform all other duties as superintendent of the postoffice building and disbursing clerk which were imposed upon him by act of congress, or by any regulation of the postoffice department in conformity with law."

For a third pleas it is claimed that the bond was not authorized by law, and is therefore illegal and yoid; also, that it is not in such an amount as was directed by the secretary of the execution of the bond the postoffice department in conformity with law."

For a third pleas it is claimed that the bond for a number of the such and according to the money purposed upon him by act of congress, and was for the faithful genformance of the duties of his office and extent of the posto

States, and therefore the appointment was not made pursuant to law.

It is perfectly apparent from the pleas which have been put in by the counsel of Col. Burnside that the preliminary legal contest will be over the legality of the appointment of Col. Burnside as superintendent of the postoffice department and disbursing clerk, and the bond given and accepted.

The parties were married in this city Aug. 27, 1873, by Rev. Wm. Givins, of the Baptist church. They went to housekeeping on First, between D and E streets southwest, and lived together until May 10, 1877, when Mrs. Johnson found the life too quiet and the company of one man too monotonous, so she packed her luggage, vacated the premises and Mr. Johnson, and has not bothered him since. He, however, kept wateh of her movements, and as a result charged and proved that since she deserted him she has committed adultory with Henry Keep, and is now living with him as his wife at No. 121 street southeast, and by him has had one or more children. The case was conducted by Mr. T. A. Wiswell, The second couple decreed to separate were ophelia M. Hurley and William F.; Hurley. The petition was filed by Mr. S. A. Cox as attorney. Mrs. Hurley's maiden name was Ophelia Mahagan and the couple were married at Trinity church, Georgetown, D. C., on February 22, 1870. She says that in June, 1875, she was with her husband temporarily in New York and was treated so badly that, for her own personal safety, she was compelled to return to Georgetown, where her husband visited her some six months late, and then, without cause, deserted her.

CLARK MILLS'S ESTATE. Its Distribution Gives Rise to an Unpleasan

Domestic Scandal. In the equity cause of Clark Mills, jr., and others against Susan E. Mills, Eva S. Mills Howell, and others, heirs of Clark Mills, de-ceased, praying the sale of "Meadow Bank others against Susan E. Mills, Eva S. Mills Howell, and others, heirs of Clark Mills, deceased, praying the sale of "Meadow Bank Spa Springs," and a division of the proceeds between those entitled to them, the answer of Mrs. Susan E. Mills and Eva L. Mills Howell was filed yesterday by their solicitors, Mears. W. Penn Clark and F. A. Lambert.

They state that Clark Mills, by a codicile to his will, dated Jan. 6, 1883, provided, after the payment to his sons, Theodore A. Fisk, John S. and Clark Mills, jr., the $10,000 allowed to them by the government, and for which the farm is mortgaged, the executor was to pay them each $25, which was to be in the place of all bequests given by any previous wills and codiciles. After these bequests were paid the residue of the estate, was to be divided equally between the testators wife. Susan E. Mills and her adopted daughter, Ega S. Mills Howell.

The respondents admit that the estate is subject to the trust for $10,000 and certain legacies. They deny the allegation that Susan E. Mills is not the widow of Clark Mills; that she never was his lawful wife, and that at the time of her mariage with the deceased was ever aware that Mrs. Mills had a husband living at the date of fibr marriage with him, and that after the attent of the marriage with him, and that after the tame to his knowledge he separated from her and did not live with her for years, nor at all until a short time before his death, when he became idemented from solvening of the brain, or that after the same house with hir death in the reside out of over him and induced him to reside in the same house with her for years, nor at all until a short time before his death, They also deny that Clark Mills obtained control over him and induced him to reside in the same house with her for years, nor at all until a short time before his death, They also deny that Clark Mills obtained control over him and induced him to reside in the same house with her for years had been an of the marriage with him, and that after the same h that remained occupied two seconds latter, and the pourly costumed lady, whose pale face flushed at the conductor's rather extraordinary inquiry took the first vacant seat with a bow of thanks to the young man to whom it belonged. A REPUBLICAN reportor witness this incident and took the conductor to task for what seemed an unnecessary slur on the gallantry of the other male passoniers.

"You oughter got on this car two squares sooner than you did and you'd have seen why I played it on 'em a little bit strong. You see that woman in the corner? Well, she got on about four squares before you did, and don't you know them fellers left her stand for two blocks, when one of 'em got off. So I thought I'd try a little of the medicine I keep in the shop for desperate cases."

"Is not the custom universal here to give ladies seats in crowded cars? I thought it seemed to be."

"It is, well nigh. But sometimes a whole car till of men will wait for one another to do the polite and end up by nobody doing it. The young and pretty girls nearly always get seats, and so do the old facies, because most of the follows who ride have mothers here or in heaven, I suppose.

"Colored men are the most courteous, especially to their own color; I don't mean to all colored women, but to those of about the same shade as themselves, though they often shame the white men when a white lady gets aboard."

By this time another female passenger, a haudsomely-dressed young lady, entered and promptly obtained a seat.
